Hoarding Disorder is a recognized mental health disorder characterized by persistent difficulty discarding or parting with possessions, regardless of the value others may attribute to these possessions. The accumulation of a large number of possessions often clutters active living areas to the extent that their intended use is no longer possible. Left unchecked, hoarding may result in safety issues that affect not just the individual, but also neighbors, and the community at large.

IT'S NOT ABOUT THE STUFF!

- A majority of people struggling with hoarding disorder also struggle with other mental health issues such as Major Depressive Disorder, Anxiety, ADHD, and OCD.
- People with hoarding disorder often struggle with processing issues that affect the ability to categorize, organize, make decisions, and problem solve.
- Hoarding behavior is triggered by trauma and loss.
- People struggling with hoarding disorder are often isolated.

Failure to address hoarding in an effective and coordinated manner often results in high-cost crisis interventions that do not address the root causes of the problem resulting in the failure to prevent eviction.

DID YOU KNOW?

- ❑ Eviction costs in MA can range from $3,000—$10,000.
- ❑ Clean-out costs can range from several thousand to tens of thousands of dollars and often don't resolve the issue.
- ❑ Clean-outs don't address underlying issues and behaviors and therefore rarely work, often resulting in increased hoarding behavior, the need for additional clean-outs, and continued risk of eviction.
- ❑ It has been proven that the most successful approach to resolving a hoarding case is a client-centered multi-disciplinary collaborative plan that addresses all aspects of hoarding behavior, NOT JUST THE STUFF.
